- Andreas is a partner at leading Baltic public affairs outfit META Advisory Group, founding the firm with colleague Ott Lumi in 2009.
- He has worked in communications and public affairs since the 2000s. His prior career featured communication and advisory roles at the Estonian Chamber of Commerce & Industry, the Prime Minister's Bureau, the Ministry of Defence, and the Parliament, where he led the advisory staff of a parliamentary group. Andreas counsels key clients on public strategies, corpcomms and government relations. As a hobby, Andreas provides social and political commentary as a co-founder of a not-for-profit political blog and radio show poliitika.guru, engages in international affairs punditry and sits on the supervisory board of Estonian Civil Society ngo. His academic interests are in philosophy and IR; in addition he runs, plays mediocre chess, subpar tennis and worse golf. He has a family with two daughters.
